“Why we don’t drink tea at 3:00 p.m. in Cleveland, Ohio
How the French and Indian War laid the foundation for the American Revolution and the world as we know it today”

Zackary K. Hoon, 1st Vice President WRSSAR

Born and raised in Youngstown, Ohio, Zackary Hoon attended Case Western Reserve University where he earned a BA in English in 1986. He met his wife Jayne, while at Case and has lived in Cleveland ever since. In 1997, he founded Z-Med Marketing Services, a full-service advertising agency that specializes in producing printed collateral and advertising primarily for the healthcare and non-profit industries. He became interested in the French and Indian War and has been studying it for the past year as a way to shed some light on what life was like for his colonial ancestors on the Pennsylvania frontier. In addition to his responsibilities with WRSSAR, Zack is Genealogist for the OHSSAR. He, Jayne and their two sons reside in Westlake.
